Explosion Rips Cleveland Plant, Four Men Killed

CLEVELAND (AP) — A sharp explosion ripped through a three-story brick factory building on the East Side today. It killed four men, hurt eight others and sent waves of toxic smoke pouring from shattered windows.

Twenty-five firemen were overcome by the fumes, and were treated at hospitals with oxygen.

Fire Chief Elmer Cain said the properly loss at Erico Products, Inc., manufacturer of welding equipment, would be about $50,000. There was a brief flash of flame, but no further fire.

The cause was a matter of conjecture. Cain said one report was that a research worker was mixing chemicals at the scene shortly before the explosion.

The fumes came from materials used in the manufacturing process. Cain identified them as copper oxide and aluminum powder. They have a comparatively low ignition point and apparently were set off by the blast.

The dead, chemists and laborers, were identified as: William Ramsey, 66, Melvin Redjak, 33, Harold E. Turner and Nate H. The company employs about 100, including 40 women.

CLEVELAND (AP) — An explosion rumbled through an east side factory today, killing four men, injuring four and sending out a poisonous fume. More than a dozen firefighters were overcome.

The three-story plant of Erico Products, Inc., manufacturer of welding equipment, was the scene of the blast. The company employs about 100, including 40 women.

The dead were tentatively identified as Mel Redjak, a chemist; Ronald Turner, an assistant chemist; and technician Nat Handle, a laborer and William Ramsey.

The fire department reported a copper oxide powder used in the manufacturing process appeared to be the source of the fumes. Battalion Chief Bernard Mulcahy said there was "little fire" after the blast, which showered down glass and bricks.

Underground Atom Test Man's Largest

By STEVE LOWELL

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — The biggest underground atomic explosion ever touched off by the United States blasted its way through the top of a mesa today and shot a column of dirt more than 1,000 feet into the air.

The shot rocked the ground where newsmen were stationed 4 1/2 miles away and shook large boulders off the edge of the mesa.

The completion of this test in a tunnel left just one more to go today before the test deadline set by President Eisenhower at midnight tonight.

Actually the deadline will be 4 p. m. here because that will be midnight, Greenwich time. How long the ban remains in effect depends on the outcome of talks between the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union.

The underground explosion, Bianca, was touched off in a tunnel that had dug 2,600 feet into the side of a mound and under a mesa.

The great column of dirt that spewed up, probably 500 feet thick, began subsiding five minutes later and drifting away.

The explosion was rated as having the force of 20,000 tons of TNT, the same power as the atomic bombs dropped on Japan in World War II. This force is equal to that of a 40-car trainload of TNT.

IRS Denies Any Probe of Church School

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reports that the government is investigating the tax-exempt status of some churches at Little Rock, Ark., were denied yesterday by an Internal Revenue Service spokesman.

The reports said the service in thinking about stripping the churches of their tax benefits if they segregated classrooms for private, segregated schools.

Some Little Rock churches have set up schools in their buildings to replace public high schools closed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus as an anti-integration measure.

The revenue service has under consideration an application for tax exemption by the Little Rock Private School Corp., which has opened a private high school.

A revenue official said it was doubtful that churches would lose their tax-exempt status if they became involved in the operation of private schools.

He said they could lose their tax exemption only if they derived some monetary benefit from the schools.

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at Emmet Methodist Church, burial by Herndon-Corley chapel will be in Shell Cemetery.

Plant Board Adopts Tigher Restrictions

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state plant board today adopted a plan to fight against the destructive pink bollworm by tighter cotton farm restrictions.

The board held a public hearing and then decided to split the state into sections with a separate set of control measures for each. Generally, the restrictions deal with ginning and the destruction of bolls.

Rules Out Agri Experiments

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The University of Arkansas can not legally use part of its appropriation to pay for agricultural experiment station sites, the attorney general's office said yesterday.

Roy Finch Jr., chief assistant attorney general, said the university's appropriation was for "maintenance, operation and improvements." The sites did not fit any of these categories, he said.

Ray Trammel, a professor of the university's school law and the university's legal counsel, asked for the opinion.

Negro Girls Quit School at Ozark

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Three Negro girls who encountered trouble at an integrated high school in nearby Ozark have quit the school for good and enrolled at a Negro high school here, it was learned today.

Nola Kykendall, 17, Ivy West, 14, and John Johnson, 13, all of Ozark, are commuting 25 miles daily by bus rather than go back to the Ozark school.

A Clarksville attorney, who asked not to be identified, told a newsmen the girls informed officials at Ozark High they were afraid to attend classes with 400 white pupils. The three were the only Negroes enrolled. Ozark has no Negro high school.

Several weeks ago at Ozark a group of about 10 white boys and girls threatened the Negroes during school hours. Supt. R. L. Graves took the Negroes into his office and the white students tried to push past him as he guarded the door. He sent the Negroes home and they did not return.

The attorney said Ozark school officials had offered to let the Negro girls come back but they declined.

At Ozark, Graves said today: "I wouldn't have any comment on anything connected with the matter." He would not tell newsmen when the Negro girls transferred to Clarksville, but the attorney said it was several days ago. The three girls could not be reached for comment immediately.

At Clarksville, newsmen's efforts to obtain details about the enrollment there by the Negro girls met with a flat "no comment" from officials. However, it was learned that the girls had enrolled at the Grace James Negro School at Clarksville and were paying $150 a year tuition each as non-resident students. At Ozark, they attended school free.

Ozark voluntarily integrated at the start of the 1957 fall semester but resistance by white students developed immediately. The three Negroes who entered the school were advised by the city marshal to go home after their second day at school. They remained away for several months but later returned and completed the 1957-58 school year without reported difficulties.

The Hope Jayceettes will present the first in a series of story hours to be held at the Hempstead County Library on Saturday, Nov. 1.

These story hours will be each Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with two of the Jayceettes telling the stories.

The stories this Saturday will be given by Mrs. James Howell and Mrs. Fred Mathenia. They will be for children up to the third grade. Stories for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will be given on Saturday, Nov. 8.

All children up to the third grade are invited to attend the Jayceettes story hour at Hempstead County Library on Saturday, Nov. 1, from 10 to 11 o'clock.

Bastrop, La. Group to Give L. R. $11,200

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A delegation from Bastrop, La., today presented Gov. Orval E. Faubus with a check for $11,200 dollars for the Little Rock Private School Corp.

Tom Davis, a member of the delegation, said the money was raised in a three-day sustained campaign last week.

Faubus said regular contributions to the private school fund are arriving in his office at a rate of $1,500 to $5,000 daily. He said he understood a similar amount being received at the Private School Corp.'s office.

Tomorrow Faubus will be the guest of honor at a "Faubus Day" affair at Tiptonville, Tenn. The event is sponsored by the Tiptonville Kiwanis Club.

Faubus will arrive at Tiptonville tomorrow morning. He will be honored at an informal reception at a hotel and by dignitaries throughout western Tennessee.

At a luncheon the governor will be presented with a Kiwanis distinguished service citation. Faubus will be principal speaker at an Old Folks' Picnic at Crestview, Fla., Nov. 8. The event annually attracts several thousand persons from Florida, Alabama and Georgia.

The governor said he would talk about state rights.

An announcement that Faubus would speak and that other Southern leaders had been invited to the affair touched off reports of a third party movement.

But Rep. Bob Sikes (D-Fla.) said at Crestview today there was no basis for these reports.

Million Dollar Suit Filed at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A one million dollar suit was filed in U.S. District Court here yesterday as the result of a tugboat accident on the Mississippi River last year.

Alliant Mutual Insurance Co. filed the suit against the West Tugboat Co., Inc., of Greenville, Miss., the West Tennessee Limestone Corp. of Nashville, Tenn., and the tugboat, Carl D.

The insurance firm charged that 2,250 tons of lead which belonged to the Ethyl Corp. was lost when six barges towed by the Carl D. smashed into the west pier of the Greenville bridge March 21, 1957.

The suit seeks to recover money the insurance company contends it paid the Ethyl Corp. under terms of an insurance policy.

Charges Tossed as Drive Starts to Oust Hays

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A full-blow congressional campaign shaped up today just five days before the Nov. 4 general election with Dr. Dale Alford and Rep. Brooks Hays swapping charges.

Alford, seeking to unseat Hays as a write-in candidate, declared last night that the Fifth District congressman has not taken a forthright stand on controversial decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

And Hays said he challenged the propriety of the Little Rock eye doctors last minute entrance into the race.

Alford said that while public schools "are being destroyed before our very eyes by the left wing Warren-dominated Supreme Court, our congressman has never spoken out clearly on the issues."

He charged that Hays used "political jargon to play both sides against the middle in a crisis that deserves a forthright stand," and added:

"I am opposed to our officials speaking out in terms of moderation when we know that moderation ends only in integration for us here at home."

Alford, an outspoken segregationist and member of the Little Rock school board, made his remarks in a televised speech.

Hays said that Alford's late bid was "unprecedented and unique" and not in accordance with the standards of the American system. He said he could not see a man's qualifications in a short period of such as that remaining before the election, he said.

The congressman added that he would not recognize "any new issues" in the campaign, that he had been thoroughly covered by him and his Democratic primary opponent, attorney Amis Guthridge of Little Rock.

Hays told newsmen that he had made his own stand clear.

"As early as 1952," he said, "I warned of the dangers involved not only against too much Supreme Court power but also against legislative or executive power. My position has been unequivocal."

Alford said he plans to make other speeches. Hays said he probably would schedule talks too.

Miners Tell of Praying, Singing to Hold Courage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (AP) — Twelve miners brought to the surface today after being trapped nearly a week in a wrecked coal mine told of praying and singing hymns to keep up their courage as they waited out the long, dark hours.

Some of the sturdier ones told of the ordeal after their dramatic rescue early today from the Cumberland No. 2 coal mine, where they were trapped by a massive earth shift last Thursday night.

The force of the shift tossed them against the roof of the tunnel where they were working more than two miles from the mine entrance.

Hugh Guthrie, 31, said he was buried up to his chest but remained conscious. He said he knew some of his comrades were dying along the coal wall. Other miners dug him out.

The 12 found themselves trapped in a pocket 100 feet long and 3 feet high. By some miracle, there was no gas and some fresh air seeped in through the debris.

At first we tried to dig our own way out, but soon we got so weak we had to stop," he said. "We had no food and no water since Sunday or Monday. The last thing we ate were a few crusts of bread."

"We rationed our lights and cut some batteries off the dead men but on Monday we were in darkness. I'd say Caleb Rushton kept us going."

Rushton, 35, perhaps the strongest of the group when rescuers arrived, sang hymns.

The air gradually became bad. There was no room to stand. In their struggle to stay alive when the last water was gone, they drank urine mixed with bark, they told physicians.

By Monday the men had stopped all hope of being rescued. Hope also had been abandoned on the surface by the rescue crews.

Then Wednesday rescue crews stumbled on a broken air pipe leading to the entombed men and heard the muffled voice of Gorley Kempl, 27, say:

"There are 12 of us here, come and get us. Get us water."

Soon after the men got their first sustenance in at least four days. Coffee laced with sugar and vitamins was fed to the men through a copper tube inserted in the air pipe.

The men waited while the rescue crews dug through about 60 feet of debris. Then a hole appeared in the wall of rubble that had trapped the men and the rescuers appeared.

"We were all so happy to see them the whole bunch of us just started to cry," Guthrie said.

The rescue raised hopes that other pockets of survivors would be found in the depths where 55 miners still are missing.

Their rescue brought to 83 the number saved. Twenty-six bodies have been recovered. There were 174 men below when disaster struck.

The news Wednesday that the 12 men had been located already electrified the town, scene of two mine disasters in as many years. Church bells rang. Horns honked. Stores emptied. Families came running to the mine in a daze of rain, hoping and fearing.

Among them were those who already knew their men had died in the mine.

Even as they waited two more bodies were brought out from elsewhere in the mine.

Kempl already had whispered to his nephew, Percy Weatherbee, the man who had tapped the air line with his pick, the names of the men trapped with him — Guthrie, Rushton, Milley, Micholick, Maddison, Lawther, Guthrie McDonald.

"I asked 'How are you' and Gorley answered, 'We're good but we need water badly,'" Weatherbee reported.

The rescuers, some near exhaustion from almost continuous efforts since Thursday, dug again with superenergy.

They clawed and pried at the nearly 60-foot-thick barrier of upturned stone and debris.

As the men dug, warm coffee was poured down the air line to the thirsty, trapped men. Finally, a narrow passage was opened and shored up and the imprisoned men began to crawl out.

Ball and Chain Was Premature

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A bunch of the boys were giving a bachelor party for Donald Bloomer, who will be married Saturday. To symbolize marital bliss, they took a 10-pound bowling ball and chained it to his leg. During the festivities the key was lost.

Bloomer was finally freed by police.

Tree Farming Big Industry in Hempstead

In Arkansas just fifteen years ago, if the subject of tree farming was introduced in conversation of one of the subjects of the day, it was followed by the question, "What did you say? Tree Farming? I don't understand."

However, dollars and cents figures are usually very persuasive, and this fact alone has greatly stimulated the interest in tree farming in our state which has steadily increased since the close of World War II.

The tree farm program has increased by astounding proportions during the last 15 years to the point where it is hard to find a person not interested in planting or growing and managing a tree farm no matter what his occupation might be.

To illustrate our unbelievable progress, the following figures are self explanatory: During the tree planting season of 1942-43, 200,000 trees were planted in Arkansas, and in 1943-44 — 230,000 were planted. This may seem like a great many trees to some but in Hempstead county in the 1957-58 season 4,500,000 trees were planted and 5,000,000 trees are on order at this time for the 1958-59 season. Compare the state figure of 1942-43 with the state figure of 1957-58 and you will find that tree farming has become a very popular practice in our state during the last 15 years.

Also it is believed that this progress

Interesting Where They Hide the Mike

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ever wonder where the microphone are hidden when Ed Murrow invades a celebrity's home for his cozy "Person to Person" interviews.

Feminine guests slip the tiny mike into their brassieres. Male participants tuck the wee gadget beneath their necktie.

Actually, Murrow's luminaries are walking radio stations. In addition to the microphone, they lug around small power packs, and a miniature transmitter, thus eliminating entangling wire and hand-carried mike. The equipment poses no problem for men who wear the electronic gear around their waist on special belts. But the situation sometimes grows embarrassing for the ladies, especially when they're wearing form-fitting gowns.

To prevent their 36-36-36 figures from bulging to 36-36-56, the glamour girls — and a few matrons, too — attach the equipment to their thighs.

Loves Wiring Job
No wonder, then, some of Murrow's interviewers appear uncomfortable.

The man in charge of wiring Hollywood guys and gals for the CBS-TV show is Steve Weiss — and he loves his work.

"I've had to strap the batteries and things on people like Jane Russell, Sophia Loren, Rhonda Fleming, Dinah Shore, Ginger Rogers and Ana Maria Alberichelli," says Weiss, a youngish man in the network engineering department.

"By air time it can be a pretty tough job. The people are tired and upset from having our crew around the house 10-12 hours setting things up.

"But we've never broken anything, and we always clean up afterward. We arrive on the morning of the show, about 50 of us, to adjust the lights, fix the wiring, and move the furniture around.

Friendly and Co-operative
"You get to know the stars pretty well in that length of time, and I've found them all friendly and co-operative. Sometimes the girls get jumpy when I start strapping on the sound equipment.

"So far, everything has run smoothly. No accidents." Even Murrow's unrefined polse would be undone, and his cigarette quickly snuffed if a short-circuit prompted one of his guests to perform an unscheduled adagio during a discussion of the householder's collection of antique chinaware.

Weiss says he concentrates so closely on providing the best sound conditions possible that he doesn't pay much attention to the girls he's working on.

"Not that it matters," he added, "but my wife, Rosemary, isn't the slightest bit jealous."

Flood control of the Mississippi and its tributaries in Arkansas is a national problem, which claims the attention of the entire Nation because this great river carries drainage of 32 state.

U. S. Suicide Patrol Is Suggested

By FRANK GAREY
AP Science Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A nationwide "suicide control" system was proposed today by a public health specialist.

Dr. Edward Press of New York, director of field services for the American Public Health Assn., suggested:

1. Establishment of a kind of "suicide control center" in every community of substantial size. The around-the-clock center would receive reports of all attempted suicides in the area. It would promptly initiate a system aimed at preventing a further attempt in a given case — a system involving various local government agencies.

2. Establishment of a nationwide network of state and local "societies for the prevention of suicides." These would operate something like present organizations aimed at the control and prevention of such conditions as cerebral palsy, deafness and blindness.

Dr. Press outlined his suggestion at the 86th annual meeting of the APHA.

Under his idea, any person attempting suicide would be transferred after receiving physical treatment to the psychiatric divi-

U. S. Likely to Keep Up Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will be ready to resume nuclear weapon testing within a short time if the Russians do not halt their own tests Friday.

This assurance came from Chairman John A. McCone of the Atomic Energy Commission today — 48 hours before the scheduled start of U.S.-Soviet talks in Geneva on the question of halting all atomic weapon testing.

Russia has rejected U.S. proposals for an agreement to suspend tests for a year while efforts are made to negotiate a permanent ban. The United States has made it plain it will call off its own tests Oct. 31 if the Soviets stop testing at the same time without a formal agreement.

McCone, meeting newsmen for the first time since taking office last June, did not indicate exactly how soon U.S. testing could start up again but he did say: "It would not be long."

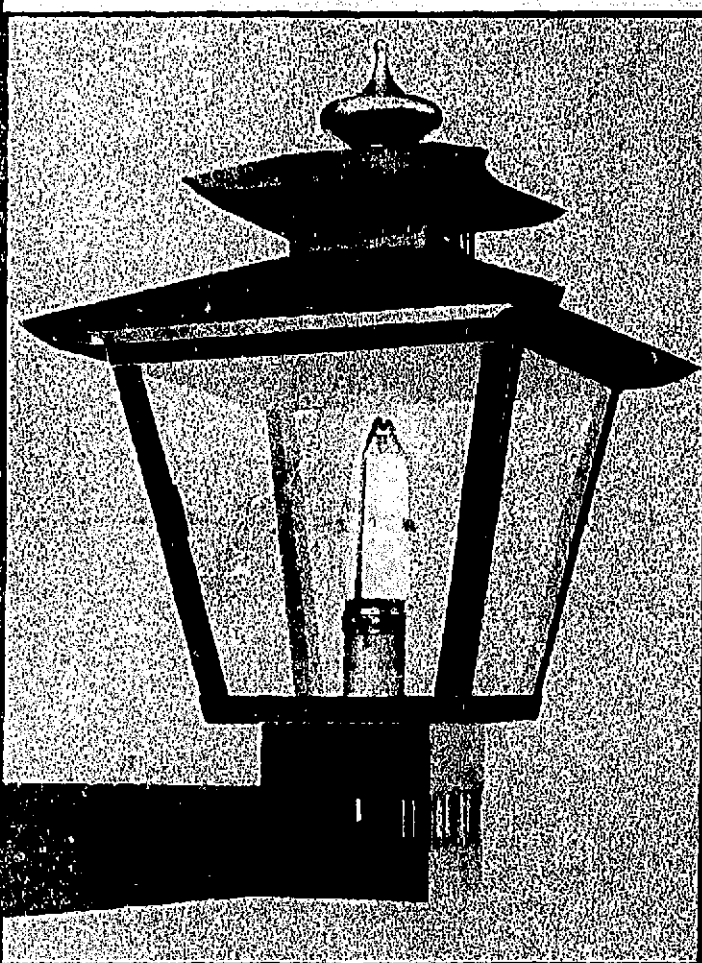

Births recorded by the State Health Department in 1956 numbered 42,898. Deaths recorded for that same year amounted to a total of 15,735.

Once the patient were returned to his home, follow-up visits, aimed at rehabilitation would be the responsibility of the local health department.

Potato Pie or Jam Cake and coffee were served to the club members and one guest, Mrs. M. Volentine.

Cosmopolitan Club Meets
Mrs. Oliver Adams and Mrs. William E. Harris were co-hostesses for the Cosmopolitan Club when it met at the Adams home on Oct. 28. Pretty chrysanthemums decorated the mantle and on the dining room table was an autumn arrangement of marigolds, colored leaves, and tiny pumpkins.

"Taps For Private Tessie" by Jessie Stuart was reviewed for the group by Mrs. R. E. Jackson. Mrs. P. L. Perkins stumped members with a "Secret" they could not identify. It concerned the total number of years she had been in school, as a teacher and as a student.

At the close of the meeting, the hostesses served pie and coffee to the 15 members who were present.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Routon and daughter, Ann of Little Rock visited Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Routon during the past weekend. A family dinner honored Ann on her birthday, Saturday, given by her grandmother.

Dr. and Mrs. John McClanahan and Mrs. Sarah Moses spent Tuesday in Ruston, La. where Dr. McClanahan was chapel speaker at Louisiana Tech.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Young Sr. were in Hot Springs this past week end attending a meeting of the Arkansas Automobile Dealers Association. Mr. Young was recently appointed National Area Chairman of the Assn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Reinhardt have spent the past few days in Fayetteville with her parents, Mr.

3 Die in Jet Crash at Pine Bluff

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Three men died yesterday when an RF4F jet from Little Rock Air Force Base plummeted into a cotton field and burst into flames. One of the men ejected himself as the plane hurtled earthward, but his parachute failed to open. The base public information office said the plane had been practicing low level approaches at the municipal airport here when it suddenly stalled and went into a spin.

Air Force officials identified the dead as Capt. Walter Thomas Berninger, 30, of Catavissa, Pa., instructor pilot; 1st Lt. Luther Edgar Condon, 30, of Lavenworth, Wash.; and Maj. Harry George Johnson, 38, of Lake Charles, La. Condon and Johnson were student aircraft commanders assigned to the 425th Student Squadron at the Little Rock base.

Each of the three was survived by his widow and two children. Witnesses said the plane exploded when it hit about one fourth mile west of the air field.

Two of the bodies were found in the wreckage. The third was about 150 feet away.

A board of officers began an investigation to determine the cause of the crash. A plane of that type normally carries a four-man crew, but the base public information office said the fourth man had been excused from the flight because of illness. Officials declined to identify him.

New State Agency May Be Permanent

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Ports and Harbors Development Assn. moved yesterday toward becoming a permanent and official state agency.

J. C. Burke, a Helena attorney, was named association chairman and Boyd Ridgeway, managing director of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, secretary.

Three men were named to a committee to investigate whether the association should become a state agency. Members are John Riggs, Jr. of Little Rock, state Sen. Robert Hays Williams of Russellville, and H. K. Thatcher of Camden.

and Mrs. M. G. Lewis who was in an auto accident last week, but are reported to be doing nicely.

Mrs. Lucille Bruce and son, Richard of Coalinga, Calif., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ross.

Suggests Way to Solve the Race Problem

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A leading anthropologist today advanced a radical method of solving the world's racial problems by geographical segregation.

M. M. Valle, author, lecturer and professor of ethnology at San Marcos University in Lima, Peru, proposed a mass migration, with each race occupying a temperate zone best suited to its physiological makeup.

Under the theory, the white races would occupy the northern latitudes, the dark races would live in the torrid zones and between the two would be a buffer zone of "brunette peoples."

Valle, recognized as an authority on anthropology, said the human race faces extinction if racial problems are not worked out and he termed his proposal the only solution.

Valle said the segregation-integration problem as we know it should not exist. "These words are political in meaning," he said, "used by people who know nothing of the fundamentals of race."

"No court has a right to rule on a question involving race," Valle said, "because the judges are not familiar with the problem."

He said the mass migration of his theory should begin within 100 years or "man faces extinction."

"It is only in the past few centuries that we have had large scale invasion by whites of the torrid zones and by Negroes of the temperate zones," Valle said. "Unless the trend is reversed, the Negro in the north and the white man near the equator will sicken and die because the climate is not suited to his physiology."

Valle came to Little Rock to study the racial situation. He is en route back to Lima from an anthropological meeting in Belgium. He left today for his native Lima after a three-day study.

The professor stressed the importance of education in race relations. "Reduced to essentials the race problem loses political import," he said. "It becomes a matter of education. To much we stress the importance of color without regarding the deeper portents of race."

Valle said he checked material on race available at the public library here and found it, as in most libraries, inadequate. "Until people understand exactly what race is and how it affects the individual, how can any decision toward solving the problem be reached," he said.

To make it America's most practical car, the 1959 Edsel has been repositioned in price and in size. Offered in a selection of 10 models in three series—Ranger, Corsair and Villager station wagon—the 1959 Edsel features increased passenger space with no added overall length, reduced total weight and a wide selection of economy engines and transmissions. Shown here, left, is the Corsair four-door hardtop and at the right, the rear of the Ranger four-door sedan.

Cardinals Pay Homage to the New Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The College of Cardinals paid formal homage to Pope John XXIII today for the third successive day.

The new pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church was seated on his throne before the altar of the Sistine Chapel. One by one, the princes of the church who elected him two days ago approached, knelt and kissed his hand.

The cardinals made their first act of homage to the new Pope immediately after his election Tuesday. Their second homage was performed Wednesday just before Pope John made his first radio address to the world, an appeal for peace.

Officials of the Vatican, meanwhile, were busy with preparations for the coronation of Pope John next Tuesday, Nov. 4. The most colorful of all ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church, it likely will be televised throughout Western Europe.

rampage in Nebraska and Wyoming last January. Carl was Starkweather's companion during the bloody flight.

Carl maintain she was not an accomplice but was a hostage, and Charles McArthur, her attorney, told the jury she was an immature person covered by an armed and desperate killer.

The hunt for Starkweather and Carl began after the bodies of Carl's mother, step-father, and half-sister were found in their home. Carl's mother maintained she did not know of those deaths until she and Starkweather were captured during a three-day murder

RR Wants to Abandon Seven Miles of Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—The El Dorado & Wesson Railway today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to abandon seven miles of its line in Union County, Ark.

The company said the line, running from a point north of Parker's Chapel to Wesson, handles little business.

Caril Fugate Goes to Trial Today

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The father of a slain schoolboy wept today as he identified in the Caril Fugate murder trial jury a picture of his dead son.

Fifteen-year-old Caril, charged with aiding and abetting condemned killer Charles Starkweather in the slaying of Robert W. Jensen, watched the show of emotion quietly but intently.

Robert W. Jensen, operator of a general store in nearby Denney, Neb., was the first prosecution witness in the first degree murder trial.

Young Jensen, 17, and his girl friend, Caril King, 16, left home for a short evening ride last Jan. 27. Bodies of the pair, both shot to death, were found the next day in a storm cave.

The two were among 10 persons slain during a three-day murder

Jury Continues

Robbery Probe

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Pulaski County Grand Jury will continue its probe into matters taken up at a session Monday, foreman Phil Dulin said today.

Although he declined to identify the topics under investigation, it was believed the jury looked into the $12,000 robbery of William Bailey Ferguson at Little Rock last December and the fatal shooting of Leslie Gann in North Little Rock last May.

Capt. Duane Roschikar of Little Rock Air Force Base was arrested in connection with the shooting of Gann. He was among 14 witnesses who appeared before the jury.

Hope-Camden Contest Is Sure to Be Rugged

Fans have a BEAT CAMDEN campaign going downtown and over at Camden the Panther fans have the same thing going. The clash meet here Friday night in a crucial District contest that will likely decide the title.

From Camden comes the word "The Panthers find themselves in a 'must win' situation. Hope was favored for the title last year and the Panthers upset the Bobcats 14 to 7."

The contest is a "must win" for the Bobcats too. A victory would clinch a tie for the crown with only Arkadelphia in the path to the title.

Last week Camden took the measure of Pine Bluff, a team which has improved steadily since the Bobcats downed them in the first game of the season. Crosssett eked out a 7 to 6 victory over Camden while Hope had a rugged time downing the Eagles 7 to 0. Statistics of the Camden - Crosssett contest favor the Panthers who gained 208 yards total to 236 for Crosssett. The Panthers muffed three line scoring chances in the game. Added to the fact that Camden will weigh as much and possibly more than the Bobcats too. A victory would clinch a tie for the crown with only Arkadelphia in the path to the title.

Coech John Pierce will have his team at nearly full strength for the first time in weeks and that should help. The Bobcats know this is

Fishing Around Arkansas Lakes

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Here is a fishing report and forecast prepared by the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission:

Lake Ouachita: Upper end dry; bass and crappie fair on minnows and artificial bait.

Blue Mountain Lake: Water clear; bass, bream and crappie fair to good on artificial bait, worms and minnows.

Nimrod Lake: Water clear; crappie fair to good on minnows; bass fair on artificial bait.

Harris Brake: Water clear; bass and crappie fair to good on minnows and artificial bait.

Lake Greason: Large mouth bass fair on plastic worms; white bass fair on top water lures.

"the game" and have been working long and hard this week getting ready.

Defense Chief Aims of Porks in Workouts

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Defense, defense and more defense. That has been, and will continue to be, the order of the day as the University of Arkansas Razorbacks prepare for their clash with Texas A&M Saturday.

And more times than not, that defense practice is against passers. "We have to be on the look-out," Coach Frank Broyles said. "They pass more than they ever. Single wing team I've ever seen."

Adjustments to that single wing will occupy most of the two remaining days before the game.

"We're looking better," Broyles said after yesterday's session. "But we haven't got it down yet."

Offensively, the Porkers were bolstered by the return of Donnie Stone, who dressed out for his first practice in two weeks. Since being sidelined by a virus attack, Stone worked at as third team right halfback, where he was switched Tuesday from fullback.

Broyles said Stone appears to be fully recovered and may play some Saturday.

Pork, Lamb Featured in Markets
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pork and lamb take the play away from beef this weekend in the nation's supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores.

Some stores offer fresh ham, while others put a special price tag on smoked ham. Still others feature smoked, fully cooked ham and shoulder cuts also are widely offered this week.

Lamb specials are mostly leg of lamb, although lamb shoulder and a combination of chops and stewing meat, sold together, are marked down in some places.

Leg of lamb is off 2 to 10 cents a pound in some areas, while pork chops are lower by as much as 16 cents a pound. Frysers mostly are more expensive.

The bargains in pork are expected to be repeated because hog marketings have started their usual fall climb.

With Halloween coming up, pumpkins are both plentiful and cheap.

Other vegetables on the outstanding list are potatoes, yellow onions, cabbage, celery, lettuce, endive, escarole, squash, radishes and green onions.

Good buys include snap beans, broccoli, cauliflower, carrots and western lettuce. Sweet corn is lower than last week, making it a fairly good buy. Cucumbers and sweet potatoes are in the same category. Tomatoes, eggplant and peas are heading upward.

One bit of bad news for the housewife: Flood waters and heavy rain have damaged the forthcoming winter vegetable crop along the lower Rio Grande Valley in Texas, a major winter supply area. Carrots, cabbage, beans, peppers and onions will be affected.

U. S. Business Profits Are Lagging 25%

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — American business profits are trailing those of last year by 25 per cent with two out of three firms showing declines for the first nine months of 1958.

But the gap slowly but steadily is being narrowed since the grim first three months of the year.

In the first quarter of 1958, the decline from the like period of 1957 was 33 per cent with the industrials off 36 per cent.

At the halfway mark, profits looked a bit better — all business running 32 per cent behind the 1957 figures, with industrials down 53 per cent.

Today a better third quarter for many companies gives the nine-month net profits after taxes of the first 461 companies to report a combined total of $5,603,703,000, compared with $7,517,376,000 for the same companies in 1957, a drop of 25 per cent.

Declines were reported by 316. Net losses were reported by 23, compared with 13 in the previous year. Red ink was splashed notably over the reports of the auto industry and the Eastern railroads.

Of the 391 industrial firms reporting so far, 278 declined. Combined profits came to $4,415,504,000, against $6,215,264,000 in 1957, a drop of 28.9 per cent.

Utilities mostly went their steady way showing a gain of 7.7 per cent this year over last. The railroads were down by 38.5 per cent.

In many cases the third-quarter reports were notably improved over the April-May-June quarter. And tomorrow looks brighter. Many corporate executives seem sure that the last three months of the year will bring a profit gain over the third quarter and fourth.

Many corporate executives seem sure that the last three months of the year will bring a profit gain over the third quarter and fourth. er narrow the gap, with the total for 1958 being not too far behind that for 1957.

The decline this year is marked in some of the nation's leading industries. With two of the Big Three auto makers operating at a loss, the decline for that industry as a whole was 66 per cent.

Council Balks at Requested Pay Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Forestry Commission today asked the state Legislative Council to raise its annual budget to an average of about two million dollars a year for the coming biennium.

Last year the Forestry Commission got an appropriation of $1,700,000 but obtained and spent only about $1,200,000.

State Forester Fred Lang said the recession hit Arkansas' timber business and timber severance tax revenues, which help support the commission, dropped sharply. Lang requested $2,036,000 for the next fiscal year and 1,882,000 for the following year. He said the Federal Communications Commission had ordered the Forestry Commission to convert its radio system to another frequency and this would cost about $154,000. He said the conversion had to be completed by August, 1960 "or we'll have to get off the air." The system is used in fighting forest fires. The budget request included about $300,000 annually for salary increases, making this item total $1,417,000. If approved, this would mean salary increases for most of the 480 employees—excluding the $8,000 annually for the top job. Lang said turnover in commission personnel has been "terrific" because salaries were not considered high enough. But despite this high turnover, he said, Arkansas is getting the "best and brightest" fire protection in the South.

The official cited another factor that could affect the Forestry Commission's finances. He said the commission has been getting federal soil bank funds but he did not know if these payments would continue beyond the end of the current fiscal year.

The council balked yesterday at proposed pay raises for employees of several state agencies and Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perry County declared:

"We have nearly adopted a policy of no salary increases because the general revenues are looking about five to ten million dollars short."

The council deferred action on budget requests of three agencies that included pay hikes and refused pay increases in the budget of another agency.

Action was deferred on requests by the State Penitentiary, the State Plant Board and the Water Pollution Control Commission.

Pay requests by the Workmen's Compensation Commission were turned down and the budget request trimmed from $171,950 a year to $164,000.

After cutting pay requests, the council approved a $73,750 biennial budget for the Boiler Inspection Division of the Labor Department, had a $179,022.18 budget for the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Board.

Budgets of $99,750 for the plumbing Division of the Board of Health and $256,760 for the Oil and Gas Commission were approved as submitted.

The council said it wanted to make a further study of a biennial budget of $2,458,012 for the State Penitentiary. The budget includes raises for practically all employees while reducing their number from 43 to 37.

Paul H. Miller, chief inspector of the State Plant Board, was told to bring in a chart justifying new jobs he requested in his budget of $820,000.

Action on a $179,500 request by the Water Pollution Control Commission was deferred until Director Marvin L. Wood could provide more information on the agency's handling of federal matching funds.

NOT YET ALREADY!—Winter, it appears, has come early to the town of Lauffen, West Germany, judging from this snowy scene. But relax—the "blizzard" covering the waterfront is really a heavy foam caused by pollution of the Neckar River with industrial wastes. It was churned up by water being pumped into the river locks, then blown about by winds.

DOROTHY DIX

Boy Friend is Cooling for This Gals Bills

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Maybe I'm a bit too desperate but I'm 24, not getting any younger, and want a home and family. The only likely candidate for a husband is a man who frankly tells me he can't get married unless I help financially. He's in business for himself and claims he needs the money for further investment. If I put money into the business now, he'll buy me a diamond ring. Of course, he claims he loves me, but I still have sense enough to have my doubts. I have a very good job, have saved quite a bit of money and inherited some last year from my grandfather. What to do—what to do!—Angela

Dear Angela: The gentleman seems to be more in love with your money than with you. Once he gets his hands on the bills, there will be no more cooling. A bank account is wonderful security and if you really want a diamond, go out and buy one for yourself. Don't risk the bankroll on a shifty business. Buying a husband is usually a losing investment for a woman. The right sort of man is not for sale, and the kind that are on the market are always liabilities instead of assets. Anyway, 24 isn't old at all. When you meet a man who doesn't have dollar signs in his eyes, you'll be glad you let this one go.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My brother who is divorced and has two children, recently married a divorcee with one child. All three children live with them and the father pays for the support of my sister-in-law's child. Here's the problem. Sister-in-law's girl is the only child on her side, so the grandparents and aunts shower her with gifts. My brother objects to this. He says that unless his children get things, his stepdaughter can't accept these presents. My sister-in-law is a sweet girl and hates to hurt her folks. — Dixie

Dear Dixie: Divorce and remarriage, especially where children are involved, always present a host of acillary problems that cannot be solved without hurting someone's feelings. In this case your brother is right. The favoritism shown to one child is bound to be resented by the other children and will eventually set them against their stepmother. Your sister-in-law should take this approach: let them take on the whole family. Three children are three times as lovable as one. Let the idea come from your sister-in-law as her idea. This way, no hurt feelings would be involved.

Dear Dorothy Dix: A year ago I gave a girl my class ring as a sign that we were going steady. All of a sudden she has stopped wearing it. When I questioned about it, she simply says "It bothers me." She doesn't want to break up, though her actions tell me she doesn't want me any more. — Baxter

Dear Baxter: The girl has quite evidently hit a cooling-off plateau on her emotional ups and downs. Tell her you realize this and that you think it best to take back the ring. It's much easier to break a "going steady" relationship than an official engagement.

Send your problem to Dorothy Dix. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her in care of The Hope Star.

Russia to Find Egypt Dam Will Bring Problem

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles says the Soviet promise to help build Egypt's high Aswan dam is nothing to get terribly excited about.

"That's putting the best possible face on a bad situation, for it's hard to see how the United States can get anything but damage from this deal."

True, it's possible the Russians will run into trouble with volatile Egyptian President Nasser, that the dam won't get built, and that Russian-Egyptian relations will turn sour.

More likely the dam will get built, and Russian influence in Egypt will increase.

Nasser, who promised the Egyptians a better life and got sidetracked with his outside adventures, needs the dam to make good on his promises.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev announced last week the Soviet Union would not only lend Nasser 100 million dollars for the dam but participate in building it.

So, the American problem with the dam has made a full turn of the wheel. It's been a turn full of shock and surprises.

The result of all of it is to make Nasser more dependent on the Soviet Union than ever. It's one further step the Soviet Union takes into the Middle East.

The story revolves around two things which got tangled together after Nasser and his friends threw out King Farouk in 1952 and started out to make a new Egypt.

He asked this country for arms and for money to build the dam. The dam was to provide electric power and irrigation which meant more food for Egyptians.

He wanted the arms, he said, for defense against Israel. The United States balked at giving arms. Nasser made it known he'd get the arms, even if he had to get them from the Communists. So he got them from Czechoslovakia.

By this time he was obviously seeking American help by creating fear here the Communists would help if we didn't.

Meanwhile, the United States, after a lot of delay, perhaps some of it needless, arranged to give Nasser a loan to build the dam.

But the United States didn't come through with its offer to help on the dam until it saw Nasser wasn't bluffing about getting arms from the Communists.

In July 1956, the Senate Appropriations Committee told the Eisenhower administration not to use any of the foreign aid money voted that year to help Egypt build the dam.

Finally, fed up with Nasser and under pressure from friends abroad not to make the loan to Nasser, the Eisenhower administration withdrew its offer.

The overheated Nasser, in a fury of retaliation, seized the Suez Canal. Not long afterwards Britain, France and Israel invaded Egypt.

They were called off by the intervention of the United States and the Soviet Union. From then until now the idea of the dam was left dangling.

In these past two years Nasser has been busy expanding his influence in the Middle East and creating hatred for the United States.

Despite his victories outside Egypt, it's questionable he could have retained the Egyptians' devotion indefinitely unless he began to make good on his promises of better things at home.

Some optimists no doubt would like to think Nasser may become so involved in his internal improvements that he'll quiet down on his outside adventures.

Probably the opposite will happen for with visible evidence of his improvements at home the Egyptians are likely to back him more strongly than ever in the trouble he causes abroad—anti-regularly for the United States.

ALC Asked to Okay Teacher Retirement

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The State Teacher Retirement System today asked the Arkansas Legislative Council to approve a $29,132,300 budget for the next biennium.

The amount is about the same as that in the current budget and consists principally of funds invested in various bonds.

Retirement System Director Hoyt Pyle said the agency now has 30 million dollars invested in bonds and gets about one million dollars a year in interest.

There are 2,000 members in the Retirement System, Pyle said.

He asked the Legislative Council to increase regular budget items from about $26,000 to $61,000 a year, including salary raises for most administrative personnel.

The Retirement System board of directors has recommended boosting Pyle's salary from $8,200 to $10,000 a year.

So far during current budget hearings, the Council has turned down pay increase requests.

The Council also is asked to increase the state Council on Board's budget from about $40,000 to slightly more than $48,000 annually.

Yesterday the Council did some budget trimming and delayed action on requests it wasn't able to cut.

Two major budgets were put on the sidelines with three others that the council said it wanted more information on before acting.

Those put off were budgets submitted by the State Police and the state Forestry Commission. Both sought increases.

The State Police asked for $3,167,965 for the next biennium, in addition to $1,572,530 for the weights and Standards Division, $57,810 for the Fire Prevention Division and $330,000 for the Retirement System. The council approved the Retirement System request and put off the rest.

The Forestry Commission sought $433,690 more than the 1957-59 appropriation of $3,485,000.

A bid by the state commerce Commission to get pay raises for its employees met the same fate of other agencies. The council cut the request.

The Commerce Commission wound up with $352,200 for the biennium, the same as its budget.

Agrees Soviet Pressure Put on Pasternak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Western Nobel Prize-winning authors agreed today that Boris Pasternak turned down his 1958 award because of pressure from the Soviet government, not because he agreed with the Kremlin's condemnation of his work.

The 60-year-old Russian writer was awarded the $14,420 prize a week ago for his poetry and his novel, "Doctor Zhivago," which describes the loss of freedom in for this two-year period. The commission had requested $358,800.

The council approved those budgets as requested:

1. Public Service Commission, $182,222, compared with $190,000 for this biennium
2. Abstracts Examining Board, $7,000, the same as this biennium
3. Veterinary Examiners Board, $1,000, the same.

Soviet society. The novel is a best-seller in the West but has been suppressed in the Soviet Union.

Wednesday, after a government campaign of vilification in which the Nobel committee was accused of playing cold war politics, Pasternak cabled the Swedish Royal Academy of Letters that he was refusing the prize "because of the meaning attributed to this award in the society I live in."

"Do not take my voluntary refusal with any ill-will," he added. Previously he had messaged that he was "immensely thankful, touched, proud, astonished, abashed" by the honor.

France's Albert Camus, winner of the 1957 Nobel Prize for Literature, commented, "I don't believe Pasternak refused the Nobel Prize of his own free will."

Earl Bertrand Russell, 86-year-old British philosopher who won the 1950 prize, said he was "disgusted with the Russians' attitude to this from the start. Knowing the Russian way of life as we do, we may well think that Pasternak had no alternative but to reject this prize."

He joined another Nobel winner, poet T. S. Eliot, and several other leading British writers in a plea to the Soviet Writers Union not to victimize Pasternak. The union, a prime organ of government control of Soviet writers, already has expelled Pasternak from its ranks.

Pearl Buck, American author of "The Good Earth" and the 1938 winner, said she was "deeply saddened" that Pasternak was not permitted to accept the prize.

"The rejection, which no doubt was made under pressure, does not alter his world stature as a writer," she added. "It does reflect, most unfortunately, upon his government and his compatriots."

Dr. Anders Osterling, secretary of the Swedish awarding committee, said Pasternak would still go down in history as the 1958 Nobel Prize winner whether the Russians like it or not.

"Our judgment cannot be changed by what is now happening," he said.

An exciting new kind of car!

Makes history by making sense

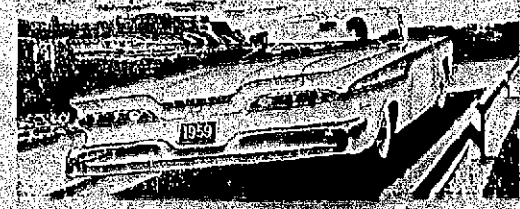

The car you hoped would happen! Looks right, works right. Priced right. Luxurious without overdoing it. Roomy without useless length. Powerful without hogging gas. Styled to last. Soundly engineered. Solidly built. Priced with the most popular three!

Add it up. You get solid new distinction rivaled only by cars costing much more! Bold new vertical grille. Strong new lines. Graceful new rear flight deck.

You get beautiful new efficiency. Wonderfully spacious interiors—with less length outside. Six adults ride in comfort, but Edsel's compact 120-inch wheelbase fits any normal garage, swings easily in and out of tight spots.

You get lots of go for little gas. Pounds and pounds of useless car weight are gone. And four new Edsel engines are here! Including a thrifty six with a powerful test track record. And a new kind of economy V-8 that uses regular fuel and wrings big mileage from every ounce! You get all the magnificent quality that marks a superior car. Super-smooth ride. Big, self-adjusting brakes. Luxurious carpeting, electric clock and four other customary "extras"—at no extra cost.

Yet the challenging new 1959 Edsel is priced with the most popular three! For example, you'll find that a new Edsel Ranger is priced almost exactly the same as many models of Chevrolet, Plymouth and Ford. See for yourself—this comparison is actually based on the factory suggested list prices.

It's easy to see why this is the car that makes history by making sense. The new kind of car you've been waiting for. See it and drive it now at your Edsel Dealer. Ten history-making new models!

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Constance Towers, who has the dream assignment of costarring with William Holden and John Wayne, should have been a star two years ago.

One of the things that held her back is that producers didn't have the vision that some of the rest of us had. Another is — I beg your pardon for this — that Connie towers.

National Leer Actually Comes From Paris

PARIS (AP)—The last time I saw Port Washington, N.Y., the boulevardiers on the 8:05 were leering.

"Going to Paris, I hear," said a fellow commuter on the Long Island Railroad, with a knowing elbow in my ribs.

"Want Paris? Man, oh man, oh man!" another man groaned. "Thus, long before I took my first walk in the narrow streets of Montmartre, I felt a heavy sense of national obligation, as though I were part of the franchise of American manhood, to be thoroughly wicked in Paris."

Now I know where this national leer comes from. It comes from Paris.

"Are you alone, monsieur?" asked the hotel clerk when I registered.

"I am alone."

"Ah, yes, monsieur, you will enjoy Paris."

On the Rue de Paix, the lady in the perfume shop refused to believe I wanted perfume for my wife.

"Mais oui, monsieur," she said, snickering.

And sure enough, going into the Louvre, I was stopped by a man in a beryl who laughed like a muffled hyena. He flushed some postcards, and when I shrugged him off, he laughed again. By the time I got inside the museum even the Mona Lisa's smile seemed unduly familiar.

Coming out of Notre Dame I noticed a funeral on a side street, the mourners walking solemnly behind the hearse. In front of the cathedral another man in a beryl tried to sell me postcards.

That night I joined a group of eight American men on an American express bus investigating "Paris by night." We made three stops and at each were served a single glass of champagne, no more, no less.

The first stop, the guide said in Brooklyn-accented English, was "to get us in the mood." This was a tiny Russian restaurant where we eight hell-raisers grimly watched a Russian soprano and a Hungarian guitarist.

Things picked up at the second stop, a night club called La Nouvelle Eve, where we saw some strippers. The last stop was Moulin Rouge, full of acrobats, dancers, and pantomime comics. No sex.

Returning to my hotel I was given the big sell by two ladies of the Protect Paris' Reputation for Sin Society. They were waiting on the curb.

Curiously they did not whisper like the postcard salesmen. They shouted, or I felt as if they were shouting, their promise of an interesting nightcap, complete with prices in francs and dollars. I said no thanks—I have witnesses—and kept on going.

The girls laughed, and I thought I heard a few slanders about my manhood.

Inside the hotel clerk seemed amazed I was still alone. Then his expression changed to sadness and finally, to hope.

"Bon nuit, monsieur," he said, handing me my key. "But tomorrow is another day, n'est-ce pas?" They'll never believe me back on the 8:05.

PARIS (AP)—Movie sexpot Brigitte Bardot warned today that she would take legal action against anyone trying to publish an unauthorized biography of her. The 23-year-old French star said in a statement to Paris newspapers that at least 10 people are now pestering her to write the story of her life and loves.

Her warning may have been designed to protect the market for a more or less official account now being revised by her mother.

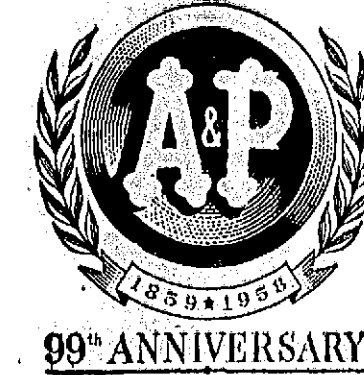

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies tonight said Australia's foreign policy requires a close alignment with the rest of the British Commonwealth and the United States.

In a political speech in preparation for the parliamentary elections Nov. 22, Menzies said the dominant element in Australia's foreign policy is to maintain friendly relations, be good neighbors and have powerful friends.

THE STORY: Katherine has learned that Paul, who was supposed to have gone away on the day her mother was accidentally drowned, had been swimming. Instead, she made this discovery by holding a blotted piece of paper from an engagement book up to a mirror in the dressing room on the beach. Now she discovers that Paul is outside.

Chapter IX

Then she heard Amy's voice, respectably loud in the silence, calling, "Katherine . . . Katherine . . ."

It took her a moment to react, to realize that she had been saved. And then life began flowing back into her veins. She stood just by the door, her hand on the bolt, ready to pull it back.

And then the logs moved for the first time. She heard him call, ing back to Amy. "She's getting dressed."

Amy shouted, "Well, tell her lunch is almost ready."

"All right. We'll be up in a few minutes."

She jerked back the bolt, threw the door open, and ran out doggedly onto the beach, the sun blinding her for a moment, shouting as she ran, "Amy! Amy! Here I am! I'm coming up right now."

She had a confused glimpse of the blue water, the bright blue sky, the yellow sand, and Paul standing just at the corner of the bathroom as she fled past him, a black cloud settling on his forehead, his teeth showing thinly between his brown lips. She did not pause to look at him; she ran panting onto the beach, up the lawn, onto the terrace, and almost fell into Amy's arms.

Amy said, "Why, what's the matter, love?"

"Nothing. Nothing." She tried to get her breath back, clutching at her chest in an agony of relief. "You're as white as a sheet!" "I'm all right!" "You shouldn't run so hard like that."

Katherine felt a protective arm soothing the bare shoulder above the top her bathing suit. She thought, her mouth hanging open, gasping for breath: I got away! I'm safe. The words she had just spoken kept resounding like an echo inside her head: I'm all right—I really am all right!

Amy was saying, "But baby, you're not even wet! Didn't you go in swimming after all?"

"No, I didn't go in."

"Why didn't you?"

"I didn't swim."

"No?"

"I just played around."

Now that she was safe again, it seemed vitally necessary to her that she should take up once more her act of being totally innocent, of having no suspicion that there might be anything wrong around her. She would wait and see what Paul did next.

She went into the bathroom and took off her dry bathing suit. Her clothes were still down in the bathroom where she had taken them off; she rummaged through a chest of drawers and got out clean ones and began putting them on, wandering up and down the room as she worked with buttons and zippers. When she came to the window she looked out and down the slope to the beach with the horizon of the whole thing flooding back in upon her in retrospect, making her start to shake all over again. That was where it had taken place—that innocent, harmless, little white bathhouse . . . she might have been dead by this time.

The nearness of her danger, the good luck of having Amy come out on the terrace, made her stomach turn over; and it was only at that moment that she realized that she was perhaps not so lucky after all; she had left the blotted paper behind her. Paul would have it now. He would have recognized it, and read it, too. She felt sicker than ever; the thought of food revolted her; but she didn't dare to stay in her room. Staying by herself was a trap, snaring for very long in any one room was a trap.

She went out into the hall, and along it to the living room. "The door of Paul's bedroom was closed as she passed it; she hurried by, afraid that it would open at just that moment, and he would come out. But he did not. When she got to the living room, she found it empty, and from the dining room beyond she heard Paul's voice and Aunt Millicent's."

Paul and Aunt Millicent were already at the table, their napkins in their laps. Aunt Millicent had her back to the archway, but Paul was facing Katherine, and as she came into the room, sliding around the table toward her chair, she threw him one quick glance; it was enough to tell her that no display of innocence on her part would deceive him. The murderous scowl of the beach was gone now; he glanced up at her from his conversation with Aunt Millicent as quickly as she glanced down at him, but behind his conversational facade, something else was frighteningly visible.

She thought: It won't do me any good to keep quiet and act innocent now. He knows too much. He knows how much I know. I'll have to think of some other way to protect myself. I know he has the paper, and I could tell Aunt Millicent that he has it. Maybe that's the best thing to do.

Mine Blasts Frequent in Certain Period

WASHINGTON (AP)—Coal mine explosions such as the two which killed 35 miners this week are more frequent during the period from Oct. 1 through March 31, the Bureau of Mines said today.

This week's explosions in mines near Bishop, Va., and Summersville, W. Va., were the first major explosion disasters listed by the bureau in U.S. coal mines this year. The bureau rates as a major disaster a single accident causing five or more deaths.

There have been 17 major explosion disasters in U.S. coal mines since Jan. 1, 1949, with 14 of these occurring during the October-March span.

"We know the most dangerous times for explosions is when the mines are drying out, the long period from October through March," said Harry F. Weaver, chief of the Division of Coal Mine Inspection.

However, Weaver and other bureau officials said there has been no conclusive determination that door of Paul's bedroom was closed as she passed it; she hurried by, afraid that it would open at just that moment, and he would come out. But he did not. When she got to the living room, she found it empty, and from the dining room beyond she heard Paul's voice and Aunt Millicent's."

weather changes make mine explosions more likely.

They did point out that a 1951 study at the Orient No. 2 mine at West Frankfort, Ill., resulted in a bureau warning that additional precautions should be taken against explosive methane gas when the barometer is falling. On Dec. 21, 1951 in the Orient No. 2 mine 119 miners were killed in an explosion.

Six Students Charged With Gambling

By JERRY GREEN

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Six University of Michigan students, including varsity football Tony Rio and basketball captain Jack Lewis, stood mute today when arraigned in municipal court on charges stemming from football gambling on the campus.

All demanded trial by jury. Municipal Judge Francis O'Brien set trial dates starting Nov. 12 and running through Nov. 20.

A seventh student, John A. Miller of Utica, Mich., had not been picked up by police, but university officials said he would be in court for arraignment later today.

All seven are specifically charged with engaging in an illegal occupation. Conviction could mean 90 days in jail and fines of $100.

They are accused of handling football spot cards. An Arbor police said $10,000 a week was going off the campus in wagering. The prosecutor's office said the amount was closer to $3,500 a week.

Arraigned today along with Rio and Lewis: Nick E. Mitea, 21, Ecorse, Mich.; Durwood J. Collins, 22, Houston, Tex.; Michael G. Dodgson, 21, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Carl M. Riseman, 21, Detroit, associate sports editor of the campus newspaper, The Michigan Daily.

Two student reporters on the newspaper helped uncover the alleged illegal operation by working their way into the gambling operations and posing as participants.

The arrests climaxed an investigation of nearly five weeks by Ann Arbor police, sheriff's officers and state police. Detective Lt. George Stauch said, "There was a leak somewhere at the key stage of this thing and we missed the big ones." He said he believes big time gambling pool operators are working out of Detroit and Chicago.

Following their arrests Tuesday, Michigan Athletic Director Fritz Crisler said of Rio and Lewis: "We are removing from their respective athletic squads both athletes involved in these charges until their cases are decided."

"The coaches know all about it," Rio said. "I told them what part I had in it—which was nothing. The coaches have faith in me and will wait to see what happens. I think the publicity will hurt my football. No matter what happens, people will think I'm wrong. They always take a negative attitude toward bad publicity."

Says Trend Would Abolish States

BRINKLEY, Ark. (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said here last night the current trend of U.S. Supreme Court Decisions would ultimately lead to the abolition of the individual states.

McClellan, continuing his week-long oral attack on the nation's highest tribunal, declared that the school integration question was a "false issue."

The present trend of the court's rulings, if permitted to stand unchecked, eventually will lead to coming into supreme law without the Supreme Court's decision being checked and balanced," the senator declared.

He noted that members of Congress and the President, not the Supreme Court, are elected by the people.

He said the U.S. foreign aid program, which he once supported, had become a give-away program and must end somewhere.

"You can't buy security or friends," McClellan said.

Referring to a probe by his Senate Rackets Committee, McClellan said the economy of the country was endangered by "thugs and racketeers."

McClellan addressed a dinner sponsored by the Brinkley Chamber of Commerce. He was introduced by Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.).

ADEQUATE SCHOOLS mean a BETTER ARKANSAS

The one additional cent on the three per cent sales tax has meant new hope for education in Arkansas! The extra penny has brought badly-needed teacher salary increases, new facilities and enriched programs of training for all our children. Unless Referred Act 19 passes, most of this progress in the field of education would have to be scrapped. And without better schools, the future of our children is in danger!

Little Hope for Agreement on Disarming

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials saw little hope today for any early agreement between the Soviet Union and the Western powers for a start on disarmament in the nuclear age.

They blame the darkening prospect on evidence that the Soviet Union is following a generally tougher line in its relations with the West.

Secretary of State Dulles says this may be due in some degree to a possible realization among Soviet leaders that despite remarkable scientific achievements the Soviet Union is still behind the United States in the nuclear weapons race in important respects.

Two negotiations are imminent. On Friday the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union will open diplomatic talks at Geneva on a possible ban on nuclear weapons testing, to be backed up by a worldwide international inspection system to prevent violations.

Ten days later panels of Communist state and Western experts will start discussions on the technical problems involved in preventing surprise attack — such things as ground and aerial inspection systems which would be capable of discovering concentrations of troops and weapons in advance of a massive assault.

President Eisenhower had proposed last summer that beginning with the opening of the Geneva nuclear talks the world's atomic powers — the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union — should suspend testing for a year beginning Oct. 31. If progress on inspection installations was made during that year the suspension would be renewed.

In New York Monday night, a Soviet spokesman told the United Nations that his government would not agree to the one-year test suspension. The proposal was attacked again Tuesday, with the Soviet Union renewing a call for immediate, unconditional agreement to end testing.

The Soviet Union itself had announced a halt in testing last March, but resumed testing in September after the United States and Britain carried out planned test series in the summer.

Dulles told a news conference Tuesday that if the Soviets continue testing after Friday, the United States will make plans to resume experimental explosions although the Geneva negotiations will continue.

Soviet rejection of the suspension proposal, he said, "dimms the chances of success" at the Geneva nuclear talks. Similarly, he declared that the Soviet attitude on this issue also casts doubt upon the success of the scheduled talks on ways of preventing surprise attack.

Finds Hypnotism Helms Business

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sometimes it even takes hypnotism to run big business.

Executives of the Kroger Co., a large Midwest grocery chain, found this out recently when they tried to complete the purchase of a Dallas, Tex., chain.

A problem cropped up — a stock certificate worth roughly $100,000 was missing.

The paper was essential for Kroger's purchase of the Texas chain.

Jacob Davis, Kroger vice president, told how a hypnotist helped track down the missing paper and save an executive $5,500, to boot.

Jack Evans, vice president of Wyatt Food Stores of Dallas, found he had misplaced the stock certificate, probably three years ago.

Evans, having no luck with his own memory, met hypnotist Franz Polgar near Dallas, and asked him to help.

In a trance, Evans said the certificate was wrapped around his will in a safety deposit box.

A quick check showed this was true.

The sale was completed, and Evans was saved from paying $5,500 for posting an indemnity bond.

Injuries Have Kept Key From Playing

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The "welcome home" sign is up around the nation's gridiron practice fields today as many "prodigal" football players prepare for an infrequent game appearance this weekend.

Foremost is Bob Reifersnyder, Navy's All American tackle who has yet to play this season. The Valley Stream, N. Y., tackle suffered a pulled Achilles tendon during a September practice session and has been sidelined since. He said he would play against Notre Dame in Baltimore.

Michigan, which has lost full backs John Hartenstein, by injury, and Tony Rio by suspension, welcomed back Jim Byers. Byers has been out since the first week of practice and is reported ready for the Iowa game Saturday.

Byers moves into the No. 2 full back slot behind Gene Sisnyak. Duke, who plays Georgia Tech this week, added quarterback George Harris to its hale and hearty list. Harris has been out with a knee injury, suffered against Virginia Sept. 27. But the Blue Devils say their No. 1 center, Ted Aoyal, as questionable participant against Tech because of a sprained right ankle.

Coach Dick Colman of Princeton, beset with a host of injuries, named Frank Schults at right tackle against Brown Saturday. Schults missed eight weeks of practice due to head injuries.

Marquette has its good news in double doses. Fullbacks Tom Fleber and John Lane both reported ready for Detroit this weekend. Fleber has been sidelined since pre-season practice, while Lane broke a finger in Marquette's opening game.

Ed Stubblebine, 244-pound Penn State, gets his first start in two years against Harvard this week. Stubblebine broke a leg in pre-season thrills two years ago and was out of school last year.

Missouri continues to prepare for its Big Eight battle with Nebraska, with end Dale Paddock returning to duty after a knee operation.

Georgia Tech's Coach Bobby Dodd moved center Phil Baum to the left guard slot, where he lettered in 1955. He missed the last two seasons with a bad back, but returned this season as a center.

Maryland's Tommy Mont will have his starting backfield in one unit for the first time Saturday against South Carolina. Halfbacks Ted Kershner and John Forbes, fullback Jim Joyce and quarterback Bob Rusevich or Dirkie Scarbath have all been plagued with injuries.

News Briefs

BONN, Germany (AP) — The government said today the Western Big Three still are "tapping private telephone lines in sovereign West Germany."

Postal Minister Richard Stucklin was asked in Parliament if the Americans were listening in on a private line in the Palatine State.

Stucklin said the treaties under which West Germany was granted sovereignty 3½ years ago gave the Allies the authority to tap lines if they thought the interests of their troops were in danger.

ESSEN, Germany (AP) — Bill Haley's rock 'n' roll music set off a third riot of West German teenagers Tuesday night.

This time 300 police were ready and broke up the riot before serious damage was done.

During an intermission in the program by Haley's American band, teenagers wearing leather jackets and blue jeans began whistling for the star's reappearance. When he came out, they tried to storm the stage, for reasons best known to themselves.

The other riots occurred during recent Haley appearances in Hamburg and West Berlin.
